STOLEN HORSE INTERNATIONAL TO HELP REUNITE HORSES AND OWNERS IN WAKE OF HURRICANE KATRINA

SHELBY, NC – In an effort to provide aid to the people and organizations that are currently working to rescue horses in the areas devastated by Hurricane Katrina, Stolen Horse International (SHI), has established a link, Katrina's Missing Pets, on its website, www.netposse.com. The purpose of this link is to centralize Internet efforts in reuniting horses and owners. This is a FREE LISTING service!

"The images seen and the stories we have heard have consumed us in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. We would like to help the best we can. We invite anyone who is missing a horse or a pet to post their information on our site. We will be glad to assist rescue organizations by giving the animals a place to be seen by the public." said Debi Metcalfe, Foundation President.

Metcalfe continues, "Stolen Horse International does not have a team to send to the areas of devastation. This is our way of helping so that rescue crews can concentrate on finding and caring for the horses and other animals."

Stolen Horse International is currently accepting listings for all misplaced animals in all areas affected by the hurricane. We are requesting that organizations and individuals rescuing horses or those missing horses utilize these services in order to reunite horses and owners as quickly and efficiently as possible. We will also post other lost and found animals such as dogs and cats.

Since 1998, SHI has worked tirelessly to promote education and prevention of horse theft, and aid in the recovery of stolen and missing horses. SHI has never charged victims for its services, and it will continue this mission for those affected by Natural Disasters.
